COURT RECORD.

Common Pleas Court—Criminal Side—
Judge Hotchkiss.

The May term of this court will open to-day, when two or three prisoners will be brought down from jail to be put to plea. To-morrow a jury will be in attendance and the trial of Peter McHugh, the York street saloonkeeper, will be begun. McHugh is charged with selling liquor on Sunday. This was the place where Officer Hope and another patrolman alleged that they walked in and secured a glass of beer each.

City Court—Criminal Side—Judge Cable.

James Larkin, beggar, continued until June 1; James Powers, drunk and carrying concealed weapons, continued until May 8; James L. Fanning and William Miliken, burglary, bound over to superior court under $200 bonds; Charles McLaughlin, rape, continued until June 1; Martin Freyer and Edward Freyer, Sunday ball playing, continued until May 6.

City Court—Civil Side—Judge Dow.

The case of Town Treasurer C. S. Merick vs. John W. Alexander was heard last Saturday afternoon. The defendant went surety on a bond of $150 for his son, John W. Alexander, Jr., who was put under bonds in a non support case instituted by his wife. He failed to keep the agreement to support, which was put under bonds to do, so suit was brought against the bondsman by Town Treasurer Merick. The jury brought in a verdict for the plaintiff to recover $75 and costs amounting to about $39. This is the first case of the kind brought in a long time.

A Short Sea Trip.

To all those who time is so limited that a trip to Europe is an impossibility, there is nothing that can in any way compare for comfort and luxury in the shape of a short sea trip to that between New York and Old Point Comfort and Norfolk via the magnificent steamers of the Old Dominion Steamship Co. This old reliable company, whose steamers with wonderful regularity for the past thirty years have plied this route, has always been a favorite line, and with the addition of their new and superb steamers it is a route so far superior to any other coast line steamship company in the world as to make it literally a class by itself.

Within the last year or two this company added to their fleet two palatial steamers, appropriately named in view of the historic waters and country through which they travel, the "James-town" and "Yorktown."

It is not stating it too strongly when we say there is nothing that crosses the Atlantic that is finer than these steamers. They are not as large as some of the great liners, but in every other respect they are the equal of the best. The officers are gentlemen, the service exceptional and the cuisine the best and most liberal. Certainly the writer who has crossed on some of the finest European steamers, can state from personal experience that he has never found a trip more thoroughly enjoyable than the Old Dominion route between Norfolk and New York.

This line is bound to be the popular one between New York and Norfolk, touching en route at Old Point Comfort. Via one of these superb steamers one can leave New York at three o'clock in the afternoon, enjoy the sail down New York harbor and out to sea, building up a keen appetite for the delicious supper which is served in the main saloon. After a night's rest in state-rooms beautifully furnished and fitted up with every possible convenience, breakfast is served at eight o'clock, and before it is finished the walls of Fort Monroe are in sight, and promptly at quarter past nine in the morning the great steamer makes its landfall at the Government pier, Old Point Comfort, one minute's walk from the famous Hygeia Hotel. Returning the steamer leaves Norfolk at seven o'clock in the evening, arriving at New York the next afternoon.

The Old Dominion route is the only one which lands passengers from New York at Old Point Comfort without change of any description, and its hours of departure and arrival are so timed as to make it the most desirable. We cannot conceive of a more delightful trip, and within the next few months there can be none that can in any way compare to this. It is so arranged that it can be taken with as little or as long time as one can possibly spare. Where time is an essential element to be considered the round trip can be taken in as short a period as three days, including a full day "on shore" either at Old Point Comfort or Norfolk.

Notwithstanding the superior accommodations and facilities of this famous line its charges are the least for the service of any transportation company we know of. The total expense of the round trip from New York to Norfolk and return, permitting a stop-over at Old Point Comfort, is but thirteen dollars, which includes not only the passage, but all meals and state-room accommodations in each direction. The at times weekly one of their fleet steamers leaves New York for Richmond via the picturesque and famous James River route full of historical scenes and associations.—Christian Leader.

Death of Miss Hodgson.

CRUSHED BY CARS.

James Daly Killed While at Work Saturday Morning.

James Daly, a car cleaner employed by the Consolidated road, was killed Saturday morning in the passenger car yard of the road shortly after 7 o'clock. The accident occurred nearly opposite the car sheds at Spring street while he was engaged in attending to his duties. A number of vestibule cars were on one track in the yard. Between two of the cars there was an open space about six feet in length. Daly was engaged in his work on one side of the cars and desiring to cross over to the other side he started to go through this space between the cars. Just as he got in the center of the track several more cars were switched down upon that line. They struck the standing cars with considerable force, sufficient to close up the interval where Daly had attempted to cross and he was crushed in between them.

Daly was twenty-five years of age and boarded at 501 East street. His funeral was held yesterday.
